Time For An Apology?

When three home-made explosive devices were detonated near to Mosques in the West Midlands earlier this year, most of the media ended their reports with the words..." the attacks are believed to be linked to the English Defence League". Then, when an Asian pensioner was stabbed to death on his way home from his local Mosque in the same area, media blamed on "The English Defence League who have been inflaming tensions in the area". But now an Eastern European immigrant has been convicted of the crimes, we are still waiting to see the national media apologise to the EDL.

Will we have to wait long?

EDL Must Continue

The announcement that EDL leaders, Tommy Robinson and Kevin Carroll were resigning from the organisation they had founded, to go and work with an Islamic charity, came as a complete surprise to all of us. It is not a decision that we would agree with but, it is none of our business. Tommy Robinson led the EDL into national headlines with charismatic leadership and brilliant streetwise tactics. In return he endured back-stabbing, death threats and imprisonment.

Without him, the EDL will suffer. But EDL, the Casuals, the Infidels, Zoe, Suzy and others must continue the fight.

Please don't leave the battlefield, until victory is achieved.

A Time For Justice

A British Marine has been found guilty by a military court of the unlawful killing of a Taliban fighter and sentenced to life imprisonment. Apart from stating the obvious, that the Marines are in Afghanistan to kill Taliban fighters, and perhaps a medal is more appropriate than a life sentence, we would look to the authorities to pardon the Marine immediately. As part of the "peace process" in Northern Ireland, dozens of IRA murderers and war criminals serving life sentences were freed, thus establishing a precedent.

Now in the name of British justice, free Marine "A".

"We shall defend our island, whatever the cost may be, we shall fight on the beaches, we shall fight on the landing grounds, we shall fight in the fields and in the streets, we shall fight in the hills; we shall never surrender." Winston Churchill June 4th 1940. House of Commons

INVASION 2014

"Extending restrictions on Romanians and Bulgarians when they expire on New Year's Eve is not legally possible." Mark Harper. Conservative Immigration Minister. November 2013

With just a couple of weeks to go before our borders are opened to unrestricted migration from Romania and Bulgaria, senior government figures are still refusing to accept that Britain faces a massive invasion. "Britain will not face a flood of migrants" is the official position. But in reality, Britain and the British people are being betrayed"

No government Minister will put an estimate on the number of new arrivals, but Immigration Minister, Mark Harper, claimed, "Britain will not face a flood of Immigrants". It seems Mr Harper bases his forecast on new proposed welfare restrictions that would bar some migrants from immediate welfare benefits such as jobseekers allowance and housing benefit. The problem is, the measures will not be in place by January 1st, and most of the measures are likely to be declared unlawful by the European court. All migrants will be entitled to the full range of benefits available! Already, under the work permit system, almost 200,000 Romanians are working in Britain, and claiming benefits, in a time when we have almost the highest youth unemployment in Europe. Our young people are being betrayed. The highly respected, Migrationwatch charity, is forecasting at least a 1000 new arrivals each week. Fifty thousand each year, a quarter of a million newcomers over the next five years! This seems a remarkably low estimate considering during the last Labour government their open door policy saw almost 4 MILLION migrants invade Britain!

Roma waiting to come to Britain

All of the newcomers will be entitled to free medical treatment from an NHS that is under funded and under staffed. No new hospitals have been built to accommodate them and the result will be even more patients being "stored" in corridors while they wait for treatment. So how will they cope with a new influx?

The pressure on the housing sector is immense, and the only answer the government can come up with is "build, build, build". Already 160,000 acres of green belt land has been turned over to housing. Britain could be a concrete jungle within a few generations. The Tory "bedroom tax" is just a cynical ploy to force native Britons into smaller accommodation, to release the larger housing units for migrants!

What can Britain do?

This invasion force is not hostile but, they are a danger to Britain and the British people. Our government needs urgently to acknowledge this. As a short-term "fix", Britain can declare, even at this late stage, that it is extending the period of restriction of migrants from Romania and Bulgaria for another two or three years. This will incur the wrath of the European Commission, whose leader, Jose Manuel Barroso, has already warned that "free movement is a basic European principle".

But we need to remind Mr Barroso that in 1972, when we signed up for the principle of free movement through the Treaty of Rome, the EEC, as it was then, was comprised of just 7 nations, now there are 28! This Europe is not the one we signed up to join! Ironically, for a British Prime Minister who has declared that he believes Britain should stay in the EU, he is providing the best reason for Britons to vote to leave.

For if Britain voted to leave the EU, all EU migrants, already estimated to be around 4 million, would be required to obtain a work permit, or leave.

Thus handing back jobs and housing to British workers and British families.

Lib-Dem Councillor Convicted Of Bomb Attack

A Liberal-Democrat councillor, John Larsen, conducted a month-long campaign of terror against his neighbours, including several arson attacks, and a bomb attack on a neighbour's car, in the normally sedate market town of Denbigh, North Wales.

Larsen, the Mayor of Denbigh in 1999, and a leading member of his local Neighbourhood Watch scheme, was arrested after a neighbour saw him crouching beneath her car shortly before it was destroyed by a home-made bomb. The bomb had been packed with steel ball-bearings, which caused damage to property up to 90 feet away. When arrested, police found more explosive materials at his home.

Larsen claimed that he was just making fireworks to entertain family members, but could not explain the presence of the ball-bearings.

At Caernarfon Crown Court, Councillor John Larsen was found guilty of three counts of arson, one charge of causing an explosion, and further charges of possessing explosive substances. He was jailed for 18 years.

Tommy Robinson Quits EDL

The founder and leader of the English Defence League, Tommy Robinson, has announced his resignation from the organisation. His decision was revealed at a press conference in London, hosted by the Quilliam Foundation, an Islamic think tank.

It appears that for the past 18 months the EDL leader (pictured right) had been having regular meetings with Mo Ansar, a British-born moderate Muslim to discuss the problems and fears of their respective communities. As part of these discussions Tommy was introduced to the Quilliam Foundation, an Islamic think-tank founded by former Muslim extremists. As a result of several discussions with Quilliam representatives, Tommy, and his cousin and co-founder of the EDL, Kevin Carroll decided to leave the EDL and work with Quilliam to attempt to strengthen relationships between White, non Muslims and moderate British Muslims.

EDL activists were shocked by the news, but a Regional Organiser told League Sentinel, "Tommy and Kevin were the face of EDL, but it was the foot-soldiers who took to the streets, and this will continue".

English Defence League "No Surrender"

An official press released by EDL, thanked Tommy and Kevin for their hard work and dedication. It went on to state...In these times of change, we are determined to fulfil our declared mission and carry on. The EDL will continue its ideological struggle against Militant Islam, and we collectively will not surrender.

Just days after Tommy Robinson announced his resignation, the EDL held a static rally in Bradford. Over 300 EDL members and supporters attended, including members of the National Front, Casuals United, March for England and the North-West Infidels.

Registrars warn 15,000 marriages a year are bogus

A senior registrar has warned that as many as one in five marriages conducted in Britain today are bogus, and arranged solely to avoid immigration laws. Registrars are powerless to prevent couples they suspect from marrying and were forced to conduct the ceremonies despite their suspicions. Laws introduced by various governments to close loopholes had been watered down by challenges under the Human Rights Act and although well intentioned were actually meaningless. The Home Office admitted that just 1,900 sham marriages had been stopped last year.

Muslim Clerics agree to marry girls of 14

Muslim Clerics at 18 mosques agreed to marry girls as young as 14 to older men, despite acknowledging it was illegal under British law!

The Clerics were caught in a sting operation, when two Asian reporters visited mosques across Britain, posing as the mother and brother of a 14 year-old girl that they wanted to marry off to an older man.

At 18 of the mosques, Clerics agreed to perform an Islamic wedding ceremony under Sharia law. In all of the cases, the Cleric was made aware that the girl was only 14, the marriage was against her will and after the ceremony she would be forced to go and live with her new husband as man and wife. Under British law, both the age of sexual consent and the legal age that a girl can marry is 16, but under Islamic Sharia law, a girl can be married as soon as she reaches puberty. Campaigners against forced marriage have confirmed some of the victims have been as young as 8 years-old. The campaign receives an average of 600 calls a month asking for help. A campaign worker told League Sentinel, "they call it Sharia, but in reality it is paedophilia".

Most of the mosques involved have suspended Clerics pending investigation, but there is no news of action being taken by the police.

British Muslim leader sentenced to death for war crimes

Chowdhury Mueen-Uddin, a founder of the Muslim Council of Britain, has been sentenced to death by a war crimes tribunal in his native Bangladesh.

Mueen-Uddin, refused to attend the tribunal, and was convicted in his absence of 11 counts of war crimes. The charges related to the abduction and murder of 18 political opponents during the country's war of independence in the 1970s. Mueen-Uddin, then a senior member of the Al Badr militia denied the charges. He now lives in North London, and is director of Muslim spiritual care in the NHS. He is also a trustee of the charity, Muslim Aid.

It is not apparent why he wasn't extradited to Bangladesh to face trial.

Police Re-Open Charlene Downes Murder Case

After a long campaign by various Patriotic groups, including the EDL, Casuals, Infidels, BNP and NF, Lancashire police are at last re-opening the case of Charlene Downes, the 14-year old white schoolgirl who vanished 10 years ago.

Charlene was one of a group of girls being groomed for sex by Muslim take-away workers in Blackpool.

Charlene Downes

She was believed to be having sex with older men including Jordanian immigrant, Iyad Albattikhi, a take-away manager, and his landlord, Mohammed Reveshi. On the 1st of November 2003, Charlene vanished. Her body has never been found. A former friend of Albattikhi told police that both men were frightened of getting into trouble for having underage sex with Charlene, and Albattikhi's brother had told him that the schoolgirl had been strangled and her body chopped up.

Police investigators secretly bugged Reveshi's home and car and claimed the accused were heard discussing Charlene's murder, with references to eating her body in Kebabs and a burial place for her remains.

The police arrested both men, but both were acquitted at Preston Crown Court in 2007, after the jury failed to reach a verdict. Plans for a retrial were scrapped after the Crown Prosecution Service stated it had "grave doubts" about the reliability of some of the evidence in the case.

A review of the case by the Independent Police Complaints Commission concluded that the police were guilty of mismanaging the investigation and a senior detective, responsible for transcribing the audio and video evidence was forced to resign. The two accused were later compensated for being falsely imprisoned. Now, almost ten years to the day that Charlene went missing, a Lancashire Police spokesman announced that the investigation was being re-opened, with a team of specialist officers assigned to the case full time.

The following day, on a wet, windy Blackpool seafront a group of Patriots, led by BNP Chairman, Nick Griffin held another demonstration calling for justice for Charlene Downes. Also in attendance was Karen Downes, Charlene's mother.

Given the injustice that had already occurred, much of it due to police incompetence, the local police should have fallen over themselves to assist the protesters. But instead, they acted with hostility, physically forcing the protestors along the seafront. No respect was shown to Karen Downes, a grieving mother, who was also pushed and shoved by police. As one demonstrator commented, "I couldn't see the police acting in that way to the mother of Stephen Lawrence"!

Karen Downes and Nick Griffin

The attitude and performance of the Lancashire police, in many ways mirrors the inept performance of their Met colleagues, immediately following the Lawrence murder. But constant, high profile demonstrations generated public interest and the police were eventually forced into action. Let us hope that this is the case in Blackpool.

France to Change Citizenship Laws

As immigration, both legal and illegal, continues to be the main cause of public resentment in France, the establishment parties, fear a complete collapse of support in next year's municipal and European elections. This has caused a dramatic change of course for the normally pro-immigrant mainstream parties, with all, including the ruling Socialists, proposing various anti-immigrant policies. The latest, from the moderate UMP party, proposes that children born to immigrant parents in France should not automatically gain French citizenship. "Being born in France should no longer automatically award citizenship. The new proposal would mean the child must have at least one parent who is a French citizen" said a UMP spokesman. Such measures are unlikely to convince the French electorate that they can trust the establishment parties to control immigration, and the Front Nationale, led by Marine Le Pen, is expected to make massive gains in next years elections. In a recent interview Ms Le Pen forecasted that the FN would be the largest party in France within a year. Ms Le Pen has also been busy in organising electoral pacts with other European nationalists in time for the European elections. "If we can get 150 nationalist MEPs into the European parliament, we can change the face of Europe".

Marine Le Pen: The Saviour of Europe?

Already she has the support of the Austrian, Freedom Party and its Dutch equivalent, and although not formally invited, she is likely to have the support of the Hungarian Jobbik Party and Golden Dawn from Greece. She has denied inviting Britain's UKIP party into the electoral pact.

Israel Accused of Hacking French Phones

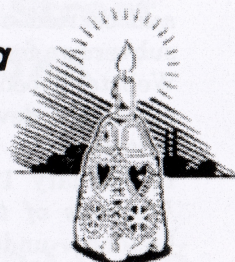

Whilst German politicians react with false horror to the news that the United States had been hacking the phones of German Chancellor, Angela Merkel, French sources have revealed that the Israeli secret service, Mossad, was behind the hacking of millions of French phones. Mossad agents are said to have intercepted over 70 million calls and texts in just one month!

Initially, the French blamed the US for a campaign of hacking, including the personal phone of the then President Nicolas Sarkozy. The US strongly denied the accusations, stating they had never hacked French phones, as they regarded as one of their closest allies. Then US sources in Washington allegedly told French intelligence officials that Israel was behind the hacking of all of the French communication systems. The same source claimed that Russia, China and Israel were the top three nations spying on the US. The allegations of Israeli hacking are backed up by material released by the former CIA whistle-blower, Edward Snowden.

While accepting that Israel was hacking French phones, most French newspapers are sceptical over the US denial. A former French intelligence chief is being widely quoted as stating, "No country in Europe is closer to the US than Germany, and if the US is hacking German phones, then they will certainly be hacking French phones as well".

Thinkers of the Right

NESTA WEBSTER

Nesta Webster could best be described as a "colourful character". A fantasist, a prolific writer, and a deeply committed Fascist. Born in the stately home of Trent Park in August 1876, Nesta Bevan was the daughter of Robert Bevan, a director of Barclay's Bank. She was educated at Westfield College (now part of the University of London) and later married Captain Arthur Webster, the Superintendent of the English Police in India.

Nesta Webster

Whilst researching the material for her second book, the Chevalier de Boufflers, a romantic story about two French aristocrats on the eve of the French Revolution, she experienced a profound mystical experience while visiting Switzerland in the winter of 1910. It led her to believe that she was the reincarnation of a late 18th century countess, the Comtesse de Sabran, who was guillotined by French revolutionaries.

It was while researching the material for The Chevalier de Boufflers and the book that followed it, The French Revolution, that she developed the idea that all changes in the structure of society, the French Revolution included, were being arranged and carried out by Jews in an alliance with other subversive forces.

Webster's books and articles played an important role in the development of racist and fascist views in Britain.

In January 1920, the first English edition of The Protocols of the Elders of Zion was published in London under the title The Jewish Peril. Subsequently, from July 12 1920, the Morning Post newspaper published The Jewish Peril in a series of about 18 articles with Nesta Webster as one of the contributing authors. The controversial articles led to a successful Jewish boycott of advertising and the sales of the newspaper gradually declined. Eventually on August 24, 1937, the Morning Post was sold to the Daily Telegraph. It was noted that the owners of the Daily Telegraph, Lord Camrose and his brother Lord Kemsley, were personally related with powerful Jewish families. The Morning Post did not remain a separate title but was 'merged' into the Daily Telegraph.

The Morning Post articles were subsequently compiled and published in book form under the title, The Cause of World Unrest.

The following year, in 1921, a series of articles were published in the London Times which proved the Protocols to be a forgery. It was shown that the Protocols was plagiarized from a fictional book by a French lawyer, Maurice Joly, called Dialogues in Hell which was written in 1854.

Nesta Webster's response was that whether the Protocols were genuine or not, they seem to have correctly predicted the trend of world events!

In 1922, Nesta Webster became associated with the Boswell Printing and Publishing Company (London) and its new journal, The Patriot, which was produced by the Duke of Northumberland. The journal devoted itself to revealing the dark, sinister forces which allegedly engineered wars and chaos to destroy society. Over the years, Nesta Webster wrote 30 articles and had 4 books published under the auspices of Boswell.

In the period from 1924-1927, Nesta Webster was an important member of Britain's first fascist movement, The British Fascisti, (later re-named British Fascists, Ltd.) and for two years she served on its Grand Council. She was also one of the British Fascists main speakers and gave lectures in their name.

While serving on the Grand Council, she wrote a pamphlet for the British Fascists entitled The Need for Fascism in Great Britain.

Continued ...

Although a senior member of the British Fascists, her articles at this time were being published in The Patriot and not in the BF's own journal The British Lion.

The British Fascisti

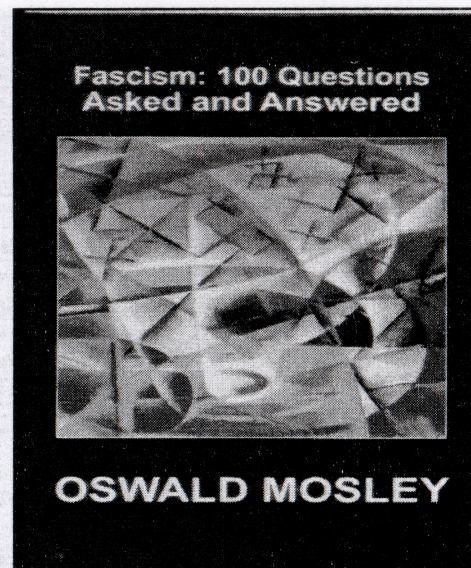

In the 1930s, according to an article on the illuminati in the Daily Express, she was a member of Sir Oswald Mosley's British Union of Fascists. She was certainly in agreement with B.U.F. policies. In the run up to the Second World War she wrote a series of articles for The Patriot which opposed Britain going to war with Germany. The articles were subsequently published separately by Boswell in 1938, in a 40 page booklet called Germany and England. In this booklet she suggested that Adolf Hitler had successfully halted the Jewish attempt to control the world. Nesta Webster was sympathetic to Hitler and had a long association with British fascism. She was involved with the British Fascists, the Link, and the British Union of Fascists. In 1950, the first part of her autobiography called Spacious Days was published. The book covered her life from 1876 to the end of the First World War. The second part of her autobiography which was called Crowded Hours has never been published. The manuscript was stolen from the offices of the Britons Publishing Company in Devon by a mysterious American and has never been recovered. It's not clear why the manuscript was at the Britons in the first place. Part one of her autobiography was published by Hutchinson. The Britons were anti-Semitic publishers. Was part two of her autobiography too controversial for Hutchinson to publish? From a nationalist point of view, part two would have been the more interesting of the two autobiographies as it covered the period when she was involved in British Fascism and the period leading up to the Second World War.

Despite being a somewhat controversial figure, Nesta Webster was praised by both Lord Kitchener and Winston Churchill. Lord Kitchener described her as the "foremost opponent of subversion", and in 1920, Winston Churchill said "This conspiracy against civilization dates from the days of Weishaupt... as Mrs Webster has so ably shown, it played a recognisable role in the French Revolution."

Nesta Webster died on the 16 May, 1960 age 83.

Austrian Freedom Party Gains Threatens EU Economy

The massive gains made by the Austrian Freedom Party in the country's recent general elections have left the EU authorities in Brussels distinctly uncomfortable. The Freedom Party, led by the charismatic, Christian Heinz Strache, gained over 20% of the vote; whilst the ruling Conservative and Social Democratic coalition got its worst ever result.

The concern in Brussels is Austria is one of the four European economies that underpin the euro zone, and a challenge to the parties who support the common European currency could potentially affect the EU's economic viability. The Freedom Party attracted many new voters with a policy of not being anti-European, but anti-EU.

FPO: Anti-EU not Anti-European

Political analysts in Austria have reported that many Austrian voters no longer trusted Brussels and its policy of EU expansion, and felt that millions of Austria's tax euros were being wasted.

Like the rest of Europe, Austria has suffered from mass immigration from both Eastern Europe and the Third-world, and many Austrians no longer trust their coalition government to manage the problem. On the other hand, the Freedom Party has been open with its plans to severely contain both mass immigration and the "Islamisation" of Austria.

Party leader, Christian Heinz Strache told a recent press conference, "I don't hate foreigners, I love Austria".

Pollsters in Austria are forecasting large gains for the Freedom Party in the upcoming European elections, and if successful, the party is expected to join forces with the French National Front and the Dutch PVV party of Gert Wilders in a new "blok" within the European parliament.

Netherlands

The Hague:

Gert Wilders, leader of the Dutch, Freedom Party, the PVV, invited Marine Le Pen, leader of the patriotic French, Front Nationale party to the Dutch parliament to discuss possible links between the two parties in preparation for the European elections next year. The PVV are the official opposition party in the Netherlands and has four MEPs in the European Parliament.

Gert Wilders

In the past, Wilders has refused to associate with the FN accusing their then leader, Jean-Marie Le Pen, of being anti-Semitic. But now Ms Le Pen leads the party, Wilders sees many areas of policy where both parties share the same views.

At home, Mr Wilders has called for a halt to building any more Mosques in the country, and a ban on the wearing of the Burka in public. He also advocates the Netherlands should leave the 28-nation EU, and instead set up a new, "Independent Europe".

Shipwreck Survivors Flee Italy

The world's media descended on the Italian island of Lampedusa, when a ship containing refugees from "Syria" sank, drowning 330 people. Italian rescue services managed to save 155 people. Following inquiries, it was discovered that far from fleeing the Syrian war zone, all of the refugees were actually from Eritrea, in North Africa, and were being smuggled into Italy as economic migrants. Despite their initial lies, the migrants gained sympathy from the Italian authorities. After a few days the news media lost interest and departed. The Italian government then offered 89 of the survivors a place in a refugee hostel in Rome, where they were met by the city's mayor. They even received a welcome phone call from Pope Francis.

Saved from death by the Italian Navy these ungrateful migrants now head for Britain

These economic migrants were given an allowance of £30 a day spending money, much more than an Italian pensioner is expected to live on. But despite the Italian generosity, within a couple of weeks, all of the Eighty-nine vanished from Italy and are now believed to be on their way to Germany and Britain.

Australia

Australia to repeal Holocaust Denial Law

Australia's newly elected Liberal government have incensed Australia's Jewish community, by proposing to scrap sections of the Racial Discrimination Act that have been successfully used by Jewish groups in litigation against those who have questioned various aspects of the Holocaust allegations. These included historian and author, Fred Toben, the One Nation political party and several Christian Identity groups. Currently, section 18C of the Act makes it an offence "to offend, insult, humiliate or intimidate" someone on the grounds of their race or ethnicity. But the new government intend to change the definition of racial discrimination "to safeguard freedom of speech". Attorney-General George Brandis stated, "You cannot have a situation in a liberal democracy in which the expression of an opinion is rendered unlawful because someone else finds it offensive or insulting".

YULETIDE and the WINTER SOLSTICE

The traditional Festival of Yule and the Winter Solstice have largely vanished into the Christian festival of Christmas, itself now challenged by politically correct councils to vanish it into a non-religious "Winter Festival". But what is Yuletide and the Winter Solstice? Both of which were celebrated by our North European ancestors long before Christianity?

To our ancestors living in the forests and on the frozen plains of Northern Europe, the Winter Solstice was an important religious event. Also known as the festival of Yule it celebrated the end of the dark days of winter, and the coming of the new spring. For the Solstice marked the shortest day and longest night of the year. It is also the turning point of the year, as following the longest night, the sun begins to grow stronger in the sky and gradually the days become longer again. From a religious perspective it is a celebration of rebirth and hope for the future. Several ancient sites of "standing stones" are aligned to catch the birth of the new dawn.

The festival of Yule goes by different names throughout Nordic Europe, Jul in Scandinavia, and Jol in old Icelandic. The Prose Edda has references to the Yule festival as does the Ynglinga saga, which mentions a Yule feast lasting three nights. Although in some parts of Europe the festival went on for twelve nights. Feasting as part of the Yule festival seems common practice throughout, with records of toasts being drunk first to Odin for "victory" and then to the gods Njoror and Freyr "for good harvests and for peace".

Fire also played a vital part in the celebrations with the Yule log being burnt on a ceremonial fire and candles or specially prepared lanterns being lit.

Many Pagan dwellers of the great forests that covered much of Northern Europe worshipped "gods of nature" such as the Green Man. This figure was depicted as having two sides, one made of Holly, the Holly King, and the other of Oak, the Oak King.

In winter, when nature is dormant and most trees have shed their leaves the Holly King, an evergreen, rules supreme. Following the Winter Solstice, as mother earth warms up, the Oak springs back to life and the Oak King rules again. Thus is the everlasting cycle of nature.

The "Green Man"

Even after Europe began to convert to Christianity the Festival of Yule was still celebrated. In AD 730, the "Father of English History" the Venerable Bede, recorded that the Pagan Yule festival was still being celebrated in parts of Britain, and in AD 840, King Haakon, the first Christian King of Norway, mentions Yule feasts continue to be held throughout his icebound Kingdom.

Eventually the Christian church generally supplanted the Yule Festival and the Winter Solstice with its own Christmas festival, and although there is no historical proof that Jesus Christ was born in mid-December, the popular time of the Yule festival was convenient, and thus the 25th of December became Christmas.

Many of the Pagan symbols are still retained within the Christmas festival today. With most homes having central heating rather than an open hearth, the sacred Yule Log is now fashioned into a chocolate cake! Instead of candles and specially made lanterns, we now decorate our homes with Christmas "lights" powered by electricity. We still remember the "God of Winter" the Holly King, but now he is represented in the shape of a Holly wreath, fixed to our front door.

As it was a religious festival our Pagan forefathers used the Winter Solstice to offer special prayers to their Gods, and today we should do the same. At this sacred time of rebirth, prayers are offered for the health and happiness of our immediate family and of our kith and kin wherever they may be.

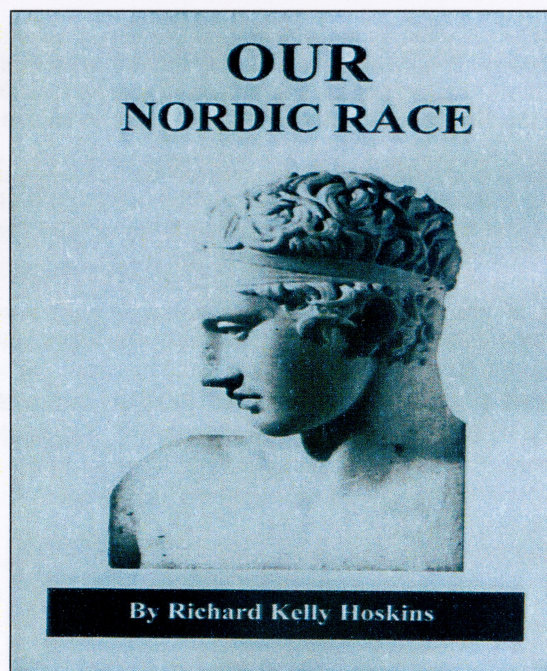

Pray also for kinsmen far from their hearth and home, imprisoned for their political beliefs. They must never be forgotten.

Pray also for victories to come against those that wish to destroy Our Race, Our Nation, and Our way of Life!

A Merry Yule to you all.
